A few signs usually point toward replacement instead of another repair:

- You see fog between panes or failed seals.
- The windows stick, rattle, or will not lock properly.
- You still feel air movement after simple weatherstripping has been tried.
- The frames are warped, soft, or visibly breaking down.
- You want better comfort and stronger resale appeal before listing.

New windows increase home value when they solve a real problem, fit the house, and are installed with enough care that the improvement lasts. That is what buyers remember, and that is what helps the commercial windows Midlothian Midlothian Window & Door Solutions sale.
