There are different types of auto shipping services available, and selecting the right one depends on your specific needs and budget. The primary types of vehicle shipping services include:

- Open-Air Shipping: This is the most cost-effective way to ship a vehicle. Your car will be loaded onto an open trailer and transported to its destination. However, this option exposes your car to the elements.
- Enclosed Shipping: For added protection, enclosed shipping is a great option, especially for high-end, vintage, or luxury vehicles. Your car will be shipped inside a closed container, protecting it from weather, debris, and road hazards.
- Door-to-Door Shipping: This is the most convenient option, where the auto shipper picks up and delivers your vehicle directly at your specified locations.
- Terminal-to-Terminal Shipping: This service involves dropping off your vehicle at a terminal and picking it up from a terminal at your destination. It may be more affordable but less convenient than door-to-door service.
