The hours before a wedding ceremony set the tone for the whole day. If the wedding party is crammed into a single room or getting dressed in a hotel across town, the morning can feel rushed and scattered. Bailey Wick Farm Wedding & Event Venue in Fincastle avoids that problem with two separate dressing rooms on site.

According to the venue, one dressing room is set aside for the bride's side and one for the groom's side. That gives each group its own space for hair, makeup, suits and the inevitable last-minute button emergency. Reviewers have mentioned the getting-ready suites as a highlight, and photographers like having two controlled spaces for candid shots before the ceremony.

For couples coming from Daleville, Cloverdale or Roanoke, getting ready at the venue also simplifies the logistics. Instead of coordinating a shuttle from a hotel, everyone arrives at the farm once and stays there. The bouquets, the boutonnieres and the rings are all in one place, and there is no risk of someone getting stuck in traffic on the way to the ceremony.

The rest of the facility supports a relaxed morning. Restroom facilities include televisions and Wi-Fi, so groomsmen can catch a game and bridesmaids can stream a playlist while they wait. The barn's heating and air conditioning keep everyone comfortable, and the covered porch is right there for a breath of fresh air with a view of the Blue Ridge Mountains.

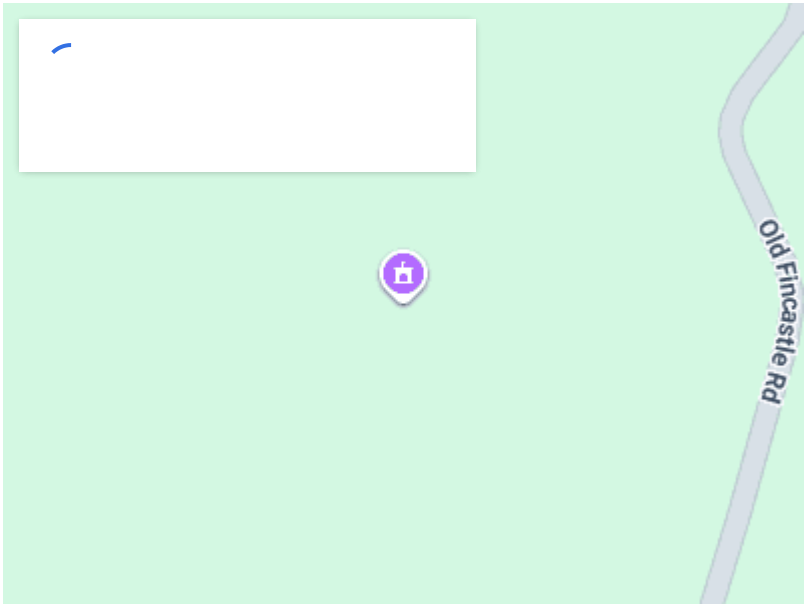

Planning the Getting Ready Timeline

Work backward from your ceremony time and give hair and makeup a little more room than you think you will need. Ask your photographer to arrive while the bride's side is finishing up so they can capture details like the dress, shoes and invitation suite, then move to the groom's side for cufflinks and ties. Having both rooms on the same property means the photographer can go back and forth in minutes, which leaves more time for relaxed moments and fewer rushed ones before you walk down the aisle. Pack a small emergency kit for each room with safety pins, stain remover and snacks, and the morning will run wedding venues nearby smoothly.

How far in advance should you book a wedding venue?

Many couples in Southwest Virginia book their venue 12 to 18 months ahead, especially for popular fall Saturdays when the Blue Ridge foliage peaks. Bailey Wick Farm has a kitchen area inside the barn that caterers can work from, which suits buffets, family-style service and plated dinners. Ask the family about catering arrangements for your date by calling (540) 293-7308.

What questions should I ask when touring a wedding venue?

Ask about capacity, what furniture is included, the rain plan, decorating access, setup and cleanup, parking and lodging for guests. At Bailey Wick Farm, reviewers mention early decorating access, help from Mr. Bailey with setup and cleanup, and ample parking, so confirm how those details work for your date.
