Anyone who house cleaning Roanoke has lived in the Roanoke Valley through April knows the moment. One morning you walk outside and every car, porch rail and patio table is coated in yellow-green dust. The valley sits between the Blue Ridge and the Alleghenies, surrounded by forest, and when the trees release their pollen it finds its way into every home. Spring pollen house cleaning in Roanoke is about getting that dust out before it settles in for the season.

Pollen comes inside on shoes, clothes, pets and open windows. It collects on window sills, blinds, ceiling fan blades and baseboards, then gets stirred back into the air every time someone walks by or turns on a fan. For households with allergies, that cycle can make spring miserable even indoors.

The Happy Housekeepers, a Roanoke house cleaning company since 1979, includes dusting of window sills, baseboards, blinds and ceiling fans in every standard visit. Roanoke maid service Furniture is dusted or polished, carpets vacuumed and hard floors mopped, which removes pollen from the surfaces where it tends to accumulate. Those steps alone make a noticeable difference during the heaviest weeks of the season.

Spring cleaning is also one of the company's specialized services. A spring clean can go further than a regular visit by washing walls and woodwork, cleaning light fixtures and tackling basements. Many homeowners like to do this after the worst of the pollen has passed, typically in late April or May, so the house starts summer fresh.

For the peak weeks, a weekly or bi-weekly plan is the best defense. Regular vacuuming and dusting keep pollen from building up, especially in entryways and rooms with lots of windows. Homes in Cave Spring, Hidden Valley and other wooded neighborhoods often notice the biggest difference because of the mature trees nearby.

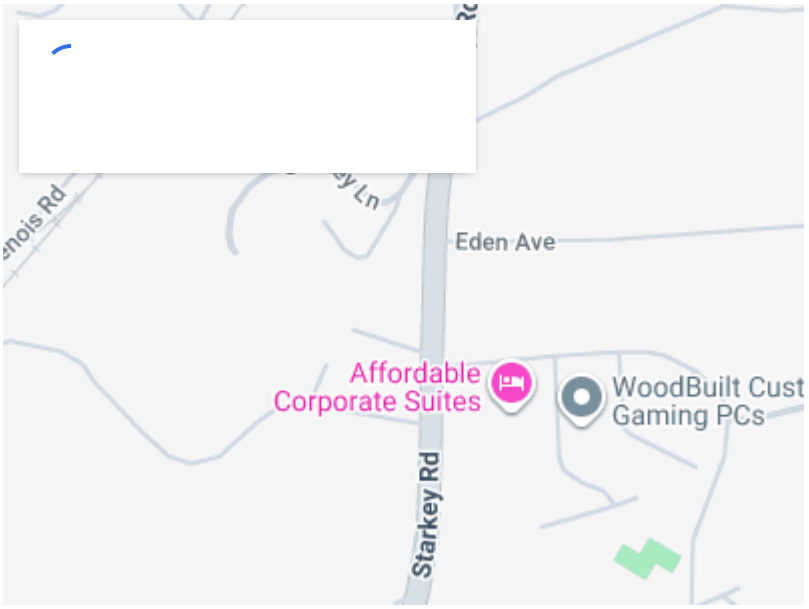

The Happy Housekeepers is licensed, bonded and insured, and staff are bonded and insured by the company, so you can stay at work, or outside enjoying the dogwoods, while the crew handles the pollen indoors. The business displays a BBB blue seal and offers free, no-obligation estimates.

It is worth booking early. Spring cleanings are popular across Roanoke, Salem, Vinton and Hollins, and March and April calendars fill quickly.
