

Shoes can take up more space than expected during a move, and packing them incorrectly often leads to scuffed leather, crushed boxes, or misplaced pairs. A little organization goes a long way toward keeping a shoe Columbus OH moving company collection in good condition. Manifest Moving Columbus shares tips for packing shoes properly.

Keep Pairs Together

Stuffing shoes with paper or socks helps them hold their shape during transport, and keeping pairs together with a rubber band or tucked into a bag prevents them from getting separated in a large box. Manifest Movers in Columbus OH see this simple step save a lot of unpacking frustration.

Use Original Boxes When Available

Original shoeboxes provide built-in protection and stack neatly inside a larger moving box. For shoes without their original packaging, wrapping them individually in paper or a soft cloth offers similar protection.

Separate Delicate Materials

Leather and suede shoes benefit from extra padding since they scuff more easily than sneakers or rubber-soled shoes. A Moving Company in Columbus OH crew manifest movers in columbus oh handling packing often separates delicate materials from more durable footwear to reduce the risk of damage.

Label the Box Clearly

Labeling a box specifically for shoes helps the moving crew place it appropriately and makes it easy to locate when unpacking begins at the new home.

- Keep pairs together and stuffed to hold shape
- Use original boxes when available
- Separate delicate materials like leather and suede
- Label the box clearly for easy identification
