

LVL Music Academy was established in 2013 by co-founders Janice and Alan Senejani with a vision to make quality music education accessible while surrounding students with the best instruments and craftsmanship available in Singapore. Over a decade later, the academy has grown from a small music school into a comprehensive music hub that combines a violin shop, cello shop, luthier workshop, and teaching studios under one roof. Janice brings more than two decades Great site of professional violin experience to the academy, having performed with the Singapore National Youth Orchestra and taught at some of Singapore's most respected schools. Alan contributes a complementary set of skills as a trained luthier, web developer, and digital marketer, with his engineering background informing the precision and innovation he brings to instrument repair and restoration. Together, Janice and Alan have built a business that reflects their shared belief that music changes lives. The violin shop at LVL is not simply a retail operation but an integral part of an educational ecosystem that supports students from their first instrument purchase through years of lessons, recitals, and musical development.
